HC directs private school staff to participate in census duty without fail

Court says census work is national responsibility and cooperation from institutions essential always

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Observing that the census is a national task and every citizen must cooperate with it, the Karnataka High Court has directed a private school in Bengaluru to ensure its teaching staff participate in the ongoing census operations without delay.A bench headed by Justice Sachin Shankar Magadam instructed the principal of The Brigade School in J.P. Nagar to immediately recall teachers currently on leave and ensure they report for census duty before the Census Commissioner within a week.The court also stated that no coercive action, including the filing of an FIR under Section 11 of the Census Act, should be initiated against the school principal, provided the institution complies with the directions and makes the teachers available for duty.The observations came during the hearing of a petition filed by school principal Subhar Jain challenging a notice issued by the Chief Census Officer of the Bengaluru South Municipal Corporation. The notice had warned the school of legal action for failing to deploy teachers for census-related work.During the proceedings, the High Court questioned how the government could successfully conduct such a massive national exercise if educational institutions failed to cooperate.“The census is conducted once in 10 to 11 years. Every household has to be visited, information must be collected and recorded. If school principals begin acting in this manner, how will the government complete the census?” the bench observed.

The court further directed the petitioner to submit a detailed list of teachers currently available in the school during the next hearing and adjourned the matter.As per the government schedule, the first phase of the nationwide census began on April 1 with self-enumeration, while the second phase involving door-to-door verification commenced on April 16. The process is expected to continue until September 2026.According to submissions made before the court, the Bengaluru South Municipal Corporation had issued a letter to the school on April 9 directing deployment of staff for census work. The school subsequently approached the High Court challenging the directive. Counsel appearing for the petitioner informed the bench that 84 teachers were available and could be assigned for census work. However, several other staff members were reportedly abroad on vacation due to the summer break.The High Court stressed that participation in census activities is not optional and institutions must extend full cooperation to authorities carrying out the nationwide exercise.

Victoria Hospital’s new Q Block ready after seven years, to boost patient care

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Medical Superintendent Dr Deepak said the Q Block would greatly help in streamlining patient flow and enhancing treatment efficiency within the hospital. “With the opening of the Q Block, pressure on the existing infrastructure will reduce considerably, allowing us to manage patients more effectively,” he said. Hospital authorities expect the facility to become fully operational soon, marking a major milestone in Bengaluru’s public healthcare system.

Newly built Q Block, named to mark 125 years of Victoria Hospital, will offer advanced surgical care, special wards, and modern infrastructure for patients.

After nearly seven years of construction and planning, Bengaluru’s historic Victoria Hospital is set to open its newly developed ‘Q Block’, a massive 10-storey facility aimed at strengthening healthcare infrastructure and easing pressure on the existing hospital system.

The new building, named ‘Q Block’ (Quasquicentennial) to commemorate 125 years of Victoria Hospital’s service, is expected to significantly improve patient care, especially for economically weaker and middle-class sections who depend heavily on government healthcare facilities.

Hospital authorities said the block has been designed with modern infrastructure and specialised healthcare services. The first five floors will house surgical and general wards, while two additional floors have been reserved for special wards. Two floors have been dedicated entirely to advanced operation theatre facilities, and one floor has been earmarked for VVIP use.

The facility includes eight state-of-the-art operation theatres and 40 beds in special wards. A helipad has also been constructed atop the building to facilitate rapid transportation of organs for emergency and transplant procedures, a feature expected to improve critical care response time.Officials further confirmed that the orthopaedic department, currently functioning in older sections of the hospital, will be shifted to the new block once operations commence.

The hospital administration believes the new infrastructure will substantially improve access to specialised treatment for patients who otherwise struggle to afford expensive procedures in private hospitals. Treatments such as knee and hip replacement surgeries, which can cost between Rs 2 lakh and Rs 3 lakh in private facilities, are expected to become more accessible through the upgraded public healthcare system.Currently, Victoria Hospital operates with around 910 general beds and handles a massive patient load every day. On average, the hospital receives between 1,200 and 1,300 outpatients daily, while 150 to 170 new patients are admitted every day. The institution also performs nearly 30 to 35 major surgeries and around 150 minor surgeries daily.

Kumaraswamy expresses shock over Bengaluru rain deaths, seeks permanent solutions

BENGALURU

Union Minister H. D. Kumaraswamy on Wednesday expressed deep shock over the deaths caused by heavy rains in Bengaluru and urged the Karnataka government to implement permanent measures to prevent such tragedies in future.In a statement, Kumaraswamy said the collapse of a compound wall at Bowring and Lady Curzon Hospital, which claimed seven lives including children, was heartbreaking and deeply disturbing. He extended condolences to the bereaved families and prayed for the speedy recovery of those injured in the incident.The Union Minister urged the state government to ensure immediate and comprehensive medical treatment for the injured and provide all necessary support to affected families.Kumaraswamy said repeated rain-related tragedies in Bengaluru indicate that authorities have failed to learn lessons from past incidents. Stressing the need for long-term planning, he questioned how the hospital compound wall collapsed and sought a detailed probe into the incident, including when the structure was built and whether negligence was involved.

He demanded strict action against officials or agencies found responsible for lapses.

The minister also stated that compensation alone cannot be the government’s response to such disasters and emphasised that preventive action and infrastructure preparedness should be prioritised.

Expressing concern over the handling of rain-related emergencies, Kumaraswamy remarked that authorities appeared to be “preparing during wartime after disaster strikes,” highlighting what he termed a lack of timely planning and proactive governance in the city.

State plans negative scoring system for registration staff postings to tackle corruption

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

In a major move aimed at curbing corruption in the Stamps and Registration Department, the Karnataka government has proposed a negative scoring system for transfers and postings of sub-registrars, senior registration officers and first division assistants (FDAs).

Under the proposed system, officials facing criminal complaints, Lokayukta investigations or serious departmental inquiries may lose eligibility for preferred postings and could be shifted prematurely to non-executive roles or less influential Zone-C offices.

The proposal comes in the wake of several high-profile irregularities in property registrations, including a major Bengaluru case earlier this year in which five sub-registrars were suspended for allegedly facilitating illegal registration of 1,322 properties. Among them was land belonging to Infosys valued at nearly Rs 250 crore. Officials were accused of bypassing e-khata norms and misusing the Kaveri 2.0 software system.

Postings within Bengaluru have long been viewed as highly lucrative, with allegations that officials spend large amounts to secure positions in high-value jurisdictions and later recover money through illegal collections or “speed money” for fast-tracking registrations.

To address these concerns, the draft Karnataka Civil Services (Counselling Based Transfers in Stamps and Registration Department) Rules, 2026 proposes a marks-based transfer mechanism where disciplinary records directly affect career mobility.

As per the draft, pending criminal cases, Lokayukta probes and departmental proceedings will reduce an employee’s overall score. Officials with higher negative scores will face reduced chances of obtaining favourable postings.

The draft rules also mandate that transfers be conducted only through a digital counselling system.

FRONTLINE WORKERS STRUGGLE THROUGH EXTREME HEAT WITHOUT BASIC FACILITIES OR RELIEF

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

As Bengaluru continues to reel under rising summer temperatures, thousands of frontline workers across the city are battling harsh heat conditions daily, often without access to drinking water, toilets or even short breaks during work hours.

While many residents stay indoors to escape the sweltering weather, delivery personnel, sanitation workers and Accredited Social Health Activists (ASHAs) continue working outdoors for long hours, exposing themselves to serious health risks.

The realities faced by these workers came to light during a workshop on “Extreme Heat and its Impact on Bengaluru,” organised on Tuesday by the Karnataka Media Academy and Asar Social Impact Advisors.

Farhana, an ASHA worker from Rajajinagar, described the intense physical strain she experiences while covering nearly 500 to 600 households every day.

“By the time I begin my rounds, the sun is already unbearable. I walk nearly 8 to 10 kilometres daily carrying supplies, registers and weighing equipment. There is hardly any room to carry water,” she said.Farhana explained that she is responsible for monitoring the health needs of around 3,000 residents in densely populated areas, often climbing multiple floors in poorly ventilated buildings that trap heat.

She also pointed to the lack of basic amenities during fieldwork. “Even if we drink water, there are hardly any public toilets available. Sometimes we find paid restrooms, but not always,” she added.

According to her, the silk crepe sari provided as part of the uniform becomes extremely uncomfortable during summer due to continuous sweating and prolonged outdoor exposure.

Doctors caution against food spoilage risks

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The recent deaths of four family members in Mumbai due to suspected food poisoning have sparked fresh concerns over food safety, with doctors in Bengaluru warning that rising summer temperatures are creating ideal conditions for rapid food spoilage and bacterial contamination.

As temperatures continue to soar across the city, health experts are urging residents to pay close attention to food preparation, storage and hygiene practices to avoid infections and gastrointestinal illnesses.According to Aditi Prasad Apte, Clinical Nutritionist at Aster RV Hospital, warm weather and humidity significantly accelerate bacterial growth in commonly consumed foods.“Unrefrigerated milk, curd and paneer can spoil within hours. Bacteria such as Salmonella and E. coli multiply rapidly in cooked rice and leftovers,” she said. Doctors noted that certain foods become especially vulnerable during summer. Fruits such as berries, bananas and cut melons spoil quickly, while leafy vegetables tend to wilt and rot faster. Meat, poultry and seafood also require strict temperature control, and cream-filled bakery products can become unsafe almost immediately if left unrefrigerated.Medical experts stressed that visible changes in food often indicate contamination. Dairy products with sour odours, curdling or slimy textures should be discarded immediately. Similarly, cooked rice or rotis that become sticky, develop spots or emit foul smells should not be consumed.Dr C.K. Adarsh, Head of Medical Gastroenterology, Hepatology and Advanced Endoscopy at Gleneagles BGS Hospital, advised people not to leave cooked rice at room temperature for more than two hours.

HC grants interim relief to solar and wind power producers over DSM penalties

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has granted interim relief to renewable energy producers by restraining authorities from enforcing stricter provisions under the revised Central Electricity Regulatory Commission (CERC) Deviation Settlement Mechanism (DSM) regulations against petitioners, including solar and wind energy stakeholders.

The interim order was passed while hearing petitions filed by the National Solar Energy Federation of India and other renewable energy producers challenging the revised DSM framework that came into effect from April 1.Under the new regulations, renewable energy generators are required to declare in advance the expected power generation for each pooling station or generating station for the following day and week. The revised regime also introduces tighter deviation limits and enhanced financial penalties for shortfall or excess supply compared to declared values.

BENGALURU RAIN TURNS DEADLY

7 killed in hospital wall collapse

CM visits spot and pulls up officials over negligence; announces an ex gratia of ₹5 lakh each for kin of deceased; directs officials to ensure free treatment to injured; orders immediate probe

BENGALURU

Seven people, including two children, were killed while several others were injured after a compound wall of the Bengaluru's Bowring Hospital collapsed on them due to heavy rains on Wednesday evening.

The deceased have been identified as Mohammed Abdul Haq (52) from JC Nagar (cloth Business); Fayaz Ahmmed (39) from DJ Halli (footwear business); Musaveer Begum (6) from KG Halli (student) - all from Bengaluru; Salauddin Ansari (36) from Uttar Pradesh (vendor); Nasimulla (19) from Assam (car stickering on Thimmayya Road); Latha KK (57) from Ranamanagulam of Kerala's Eranakulam (visitor); Smitha (47) from Ranamanagulam in Kerala (visitor).

Thouse injured include Priti (51), Siji (45), and Maya (51) — all tourists from Kerala; Tabreen Taj (47), Mubeen Taj (49), Azzu (35), and Sajid (20) — all local residents; Syed Zameer and Samiulla (street vendors), who are under treatment at the Victoria Hospital.

Most of the victims were roadside vendors, who had been doing business for years on the footpath adjoining the hospital's compound wall in the busy Shivajinagar. The children were reportedly present with elders due to the summer vacation and the two deceased women were from Kerala.

Police, fire department, and emergency services personnel rushed to the spot and launched a debris clearance operation.

As per onlookers, those present at the spot did not get the time to run away as the wall collapsed on them suddenly and they were all buried under the debris. Other street vendors and shopkeepers pulled out some of those buried under the debris and shifted them to the hospital.

Eyewitnesses said vendors and pedestrians had taken shelter beside an old wall, using a large tarpaulin sheet for cover as the rain intensified. "As the rain and winds picked up suddenly, people gathered under the tarpaulin. Within moments, the wall collapsed."

CM pulls up officials

CM Siddaramaiah along with top cop Seemath Kumar Singh visited the spot and the emergency ward of the Bowring Hospital. The CM gathered information from officials and announced an ex gratia of Rs 5 lakh each to the kin of the deceased and directed officials to ensure free treatment to the injured. "What action have you taken? Couldn't you inspect the old wall? Was there no coordination among departments? This tragedy could have been prevented had proper precautions been taken," he reportedly told officials.

City roads get hail carpet

A sudden and intense hailstorm swept across parts of Bengaluru, catching residents off guard and briefly transforming parts of the city into icy landscapes. The impact was most striking at the Kanteerava Stadium, where the ground was covered with a thick layer of hailstones, forming an unusual white blanket rarely seen in the city. Hailstorm was reported in Queens Road, Shantinagar, Lalbagh, Wilson Garden, Jayanagar, MG Road, Shivajinagar, Majestic, Malleswaram, JP Nagar, Basavanagudi and other areas,

Rains down parts of city under water

The downpour disrupted evening traffic, leaving commuters stranded in multiple stretches. Many two-wheeler riders took shelter under flyovers and skywalks, while roadside vendors struggled to protect their goods. With the rains, the city, from being parched, witnessed waterlogging in just two hours. There was waist-deep water in many areas in the city such as Richmond Town and Shanthinagar, resembling a river.

Winds bring several trees down

The rain also led to incidents of damage. Trees were uprooted in some areas due to strong winds, including on the Sheshadripuram–Malleswaram Road, leading to temporary closure. In Goraguntepalya, a fallen tree damaged a parked car, though no injuries were reported. At Shivananda Circle, a large tree collapse damaged three cars and four bikes. Uprooting of trees was also reported at Malleswaram, Shanthinagar, RT Nagar, HAL, Vijayanagar, Chamarajpet, Cubbon Park, JP Nagar, Upparpet, Halasuru Gate, Wilson Garden, Sadashivanagar, Mico Layout and High Ground.

Water enters Vidhana Soudha

The unexpected rain did not spare Vidhana Soudha, the seat of power as rainwater gushed reportedly inside the government offices from the lobby, the first-floor corridor and the office of the Leader of the Opposition R Ashoka. Files, computers and furniture were reportedly affected. Waterlogging was also reported at the KSRTC Hospital. Rainwater also entered the Banashankari Metro station, inundating the ticket counter area.

Residents cheer as rain finally falls

Residents, who had been reeling under temperatures touching 37°C in recent days, expressed joy over the sudden change in weather, with social media flooding with scenes of rain-soaked streets and celebrations of the lowered temperatures which dipped to around 27°C to 29°C in some areas.

IMD forecast further rain

The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has forecast further rain and thunderstorms until at least May 5, with winds of 30–40 kmph and chances of hail in isolated areas.

Bengal logs 91.66% turnout

KOLKATA

West Bengal has recorded its highest-ever voter turnout since Independence, with an impressive 91.66% polling in Phase-2 of the Assembly elections on Wednesday, said the Election Commission of India (ECI).

Polling for Phase-II began at 7 am and continued till evening, with voter participation reaching 91.66% by 7:45 pm. Combined with Phase-I turnout of 93.19%, the overall polling percentage across the first two phases stands at a record 92.47%, surpassing the previous high of 84.72% recorded in the 2011 Assembly elections.

Gender-wise data for Phase-II indicates strong participation across all groups, with female voter turnout at 92.28%, higher than male turnout at 91.07%, while third-gender participation stood at 91.28%.

CEC Gyanesh Kumar, along with Election Commissioners SS Sandhu and Vivek Joshi, monitored the polling process closely through live webcasting, which was implemented across 100% of polling stations in Phase-II.

The EC said the high turnout reflects robust voter engagement and confidence in the electoral process. Several voter-friendly initiatives were implemented to enhance participation, including colour photographs of candidates on EVM ballot papers, mobile deposit facilities, redesigned voter information slips, and a cap of 1,200 electors per polling station to reduce crowding.

Special arrangements were also made to assist Persons with Disabilities (PwD), including provision of wheelchairs, volunteers, and transport facilities to polling stations. Across both phases, polling was conducted in 294 Assembly constituencies spanning 24 districts, with over 6.81 crore electors and nearly 2,926 candidates in the fray. More than 85,000 polling stations and over 4.26 lakh polling personnel were deployed to ensure smooth conduct of elections.

The ECI noted that the turnout figures are provisional and do not yet include service voters and postal ballots. Final figures will be released after complete data compilation.

Rajanna: If Rahul Gandhi asks, Siddaramaiah will resign

This signals a shift in the stance of the Siddaramaiah camp, which has maintained that there would not, and should not, be any change in leadership

BENGALURU

Senior Congress leader KN Rajanna said Tuesday that Chief Minister Siddaramaiah will "sacrifice power" if top party leader Rahul Gandhi asks him to step down.

This signals a shift in the stance of the Siddaramaiah camp, which has maintained that there would not, and should not, be any change in leadership.

"The chief minister has an open mind. He has said he would abide by the directions of the high command and Rahul Gandhi, and that everyone should cooperate," Rajanna, a Siddaramaiah loyalist, said.

"The CM's mindset is that he is ready to sacrifice power or continue in power as per Rahul Gandhi's directions. He will abide by Gandhi's decision."

Rajanna's statement is being seen as the Siddaramaiah camp's attempt to mount pressure on Rahul Gandhi to decide on the leadership dispute with Shivakumar. In political circles, Rahul is seen as amiable towards Siddaramaiah.

Rajanna, the Madhugiri MLA, also urged the high command to clear the confusion surrounding the chief minister's tenure.

"The longer the confusion continues, the more detrimental it is for the party and governance," he said.

If Siddaramaiah is replaced, the next chief minister should be a Dalit, Rajanna said. "I'm committed to the statement that there should be a Dalit CM."

Rajanna, who recently lamented that Siddaramaiah had become "helpless", reiterated his statement: "Compare Siddaramaiah as CM during 2013-18 and 2023 to now, there's a huge difference and people are talking about it."

Public Works Minister Satish Jarkiholi and Social Welfare Minister Dr H C Mahadevappa, both Siddaramaiah supporters, are in Delhi. Last week, Shivakumar spent a couple of days in the national capital.

Why leadership change?

Supporters of DyCM DK Shivakumar and some party leaders are demanding a change in leadership after 2.5 years of the current administration.

Dialogue reset in Ladakh as Shah lands in Leh

LEH

Union Home Minister Amit Shah will arrive in Leh on Thursday for a two-day visit amid growing expectations from Ladakh-based groups seeking talks on statehood and constitutional safeguards for the Union Territory.

Minister Sudhakar urges safety measures for heatwave

CH NEWS CHIKKABALLAPURA

District In-charge Minister and Higher Education Minister Dr. M.C. Sudhakar has urged people to take necessary precautions as the region faces intense heat and unusual weather conditions. He said the Meteorological Department has warned of rising temperatures and strong hot winds, and advised the public to strictly follow health department guidelines.

He was speaking after presiding over the quarterly KDP meeting held at Sir M. Visveswaraiah Hall of the Zilla Panchayat on Wednesday, where the progress of various government departments was reviewed.

Dr. Sudhakar said the state has received below-normal rainfall this year, though Chikkaballapura district may still receive irregular showers. He instructed officials to stay alert and take precautionary steps regardless of rainfall changes, especially regarding drinking water supply.

He said 313 borewells have been drilled under the mission plan and should be made functional soon by ensuring electricity connections so that water can be supplied to people without delay. He also informed that ₹1.5 crore has been released by the state government for emergency drinking water supply, and additional funds will be provided whenever required.

The Minister also raised concern about sewage water entering Amani Lake near Kandavara and Gopalakrishna areas of Chikkaballapura city. He said a full drainage system project worth ₹30 crore has been taken up to prevent pollution, and the tender process is currently underway.

He noted that drinking water shortage has already been reported in several villages—12 in February, 23 in March, and 31 at present. He warned that around 108 villages may face water problems in the coming days and directed officials to prepare accordingly. Temporary arrangements are being made with support from private pipeline owners.

Dr. Sudhakar emphasized that protecting public health during heatwave conditions is a priority and urged citizens to stay hydrated, avoid direct sun exposure, and follow safety advice issued by authorities.

The meeting was attended by MLAs, district officials, police and forest department heads, urban development authorities, and senior administrative officers who reviewed ongoing development and welfare programmes in the district.

Farmers protest illegal soil mining in Chincholi

Farmers protested delay in land possession since 2001 allotment, alleging illegal soil mining and demanding immediate survey completion and official handover of land

CHINCHOLI

A protest was held in Chincholi taluk of Kalaburagi district under the leadership of Karnataka Rakshana Vedike Swabhimani Sena, demanding action against illegal soil mining and long-pending land distribution issues in Shadhipura village.

Protesters alleged that despite government allotment of land in Survey No. 126/1 and 126/3 to around 54 farmer families in 2001, physical possession has not been given even after 24 years due to delay in survey work. They said this administrative delay has allowed illegal soil mining activities to continue in the area.

Farmers accused soil mafia groups of exploiting the situation and illegally extracting government land resources without restriction. They demanded immediate survey completion and handover of land as per the original 2001 records.

They also urged authorities to ban transport companies allegedly involved in illegal soil movement and take strict action against officials who may be supporting such activities. Protesters demanded seizure of vehicles like Hitachi machines and lorries used in illegal transport and registration of FIR cases against those responsible.

Farmers further called for setting up a check post near the Telangana border to prevent illegal entry and transport of soil from the region.

Activists warned that if authorities fail to respond, they will escalate the matter to the Lokayukta within the coming days.

The protest saw participation from several farmers including taluk president Limbaji Chauhan, Shantappa, Parvathamma, Devibai, Shankar Pawar, Naresh Jadhav, Maruti Ganjagiri, Prem Rathod, Hemibai, Rukminibai, Chandu and many others.

Farmers said they will continue their agitation until justice is delivered and long-pending land rights are officially granted without further delay.

Public cooperation urged for malaria control drive

VIJAYAPURA

Dr. Channappa Katti, Deputy Director, said public cooperation is essential for malaria control, prevention, and treatment during a health awareness rally held for Malaria Day under joint departments. He said Karnataka aims to eliminate malaria by 2027. Malaria is caused by Plasmodium parasite spread through bites of female Anopheles mosquitoes. Cases are seen throughout the year but increase during monsoon from June to October due to stagnant water in lakes, wells, pits, and low-lying areas, which helps mosquito breeding in rural and urban regions, so strong action is needed. He appealed to people to support health workers and follow preventive measures. District Health Officer Dr. Swathamkumar Gunari advised keeping water bodies clean, releasing fish in ponds, ensuring drainage flow, and chlorinating water sources. He said households should empty containers weekly, store water safely, and avoid mosquito breeding sites. People should use mosquito nets, and take precautions during evening hours. He stressed keeping surroundings clean and not allowing water stagnation. Officials also advised anyone with fever symptoms to visit nearby government hospitals for blood tests and early treatment. Health staff, ASHA workers, students, and officers took part in the awareness rally. Officials said awareness programs will continue across Vijayapura district to reduce mosquito breeding and protect public health. They urged citizens to report fever cases early and maintain cleanliness in surroundings for effective malaria control efforts together in the entire district.

Kalaburagi leaders demand apology from Pratap Simha

KALABURAGI

Social activist Prof. Sanjay Makal strongly condemned the statement made by former BJP MP Pratap Simha, in which he reportedly compared AICC President Mallikarjun Kharge to Muhammad Ali Jinnah. He said the remarks were irresponsible and misleading, and demanded that Pratap Simha apologise immediately for distorting historical facts. Addressing a press conference at Patrika Bhawan in the city, he said Pratap Simha should first study history before making such comparisons.

He also criticised Pratap Simha, saying that despite his RSS background, he did not speak against the Razakar movement during earlier times and therefore had no moral authority to comment on leaders like Kharge. He further said that even former Deputy Prime Minister L.K. Advani visited Pakistan in 2005 and paid respects at Muhammad Ali Jinnah's tomb, highlighting inconsistencies in political arguments. He said that in the liberation history of Hyderabad Karnataka (now Kalyana Karnataka), RSS leaders had little or no role, while Congress leaders.

'Faster than expressways': PM hails UP's development model

Modi described the newly-inaugurated Ganga Expressway, India's largest greenfield corridor, as a new lifeline of development, opening doors of opportunity for farmers, industry, and youth

HARDOI (UP)

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday lauded the pace of developmental works in Uttar Pradesh under the leadership of Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath.

Addressing a gathering during the inauguration of the Ganga Expressway, PM Modi said, "In Uttar Pradesh today, not only are expressways being built, but the overall development of the state is progressing at an even faster pace."

Describing the Ganga Expressway as the identity of a "New Uttar Pradesh," PM Modi stated that it will emerge as a new lifeline for the state's economy, connectivity, and employment.

In his address, the Prime Minister made it clear that the Ganga Expressway is not merely a road project, but the foundation of Uttar Pradesh's economic, social, and industrial transformation - where development is moving ahead even faster than the speed of the expressway itself.

The Prime Minister said that Uttar Pradesh has received the gift of this expressway with the blessings of Maa Ganga. People can now reach the Sangam in a few hours and visit Kashi for darshan. He expressed happiness that the expressway has been named after Maa Ganga, symbolising both the state's heritage and its development.

He noted that earlier, farmers' produce could not reach markets on time, but now through the expressway, products will reach markets faster, increasing farmers' income. Products such as sports goods from Meerut, handloom from Hardoi, leather from Unnao, and amla from Pratapgarh will gain better market access.

The expressway will attract industries across 12 districts and create employment opportunities for youth. Built within just five years, work has already begun on plans to extend it beyond Meerut up to Haridwar. It will also be connected with other expressways to create a comprehensive network.

The Prime Minister said that infrastructure expansion in Uttar Pradesh is happening rapidly today. There has been unprecedented progress in expressways, airports, industrial corridors, and defense manufacturing. A total of 21 airports are being developed in the state, including 5 international airports.

Major projects like the BrahMos missile are giving a new identity to the state's industrial strength. Once labeled a "BIMARU" state, Uttar Pradesh is now moving rapidly toward becoming a one-trillion-dollar economy. With new opportunities in investment, industry, and employment, the state's image has transformed, and it has become a major destination for investors.

The Prime Minister said, "No one could not have even imagined industrial corridors during earlier governments. Earlier there was migration; today investor summits are being held. Of all mobile phones manufactured in India, more than half are produced in Uttar Pradesh alone. Uttar Pradesh has changed the old style of politics. This is the sacred land of Lord Ram and Lord Krishna. Previous governments had made crime and lawlessness the identity of the state. Those who have lost power are now trying again to divide UP and society."

He alleged that they are anti-women and had opposed the Nari Shakti Vandan Act. He added that these opposition parties are unhappy with UP's increasing representation, and after reaching Parliament with people's votes, they stand with those who criticize Uttar Pradesh.

In-short

* The 594-km Ganga Expressway connects Meerut to Prayagraj in Uttar Pradesh.
* The six-lane expressway (expandable to eight) allows speeds up to 120 km/h, cutting travel time to around 6 hours.
* Built at a cost of about ₹36,000 crore, it is one of India's largest greenfield infrastructure projects.
* The project is expected to boost connectivity, logistics, and economic growth across multiple districts in the state.

GST superintendent, consultant arrested in ₹20 lakh bribery sting

RAJKOT

The Gujarat Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) arrested a Central GST (CGST) superintendent and a tax consultant after catching them red-handed while accepting a bribe of ₹20 lakh. The operation, conducted at the Creative Complex near Rajkot's ST bus station, is the latest in a string of high-profile corruption crackdowns within the tax department.

The accused, identified as 43-year-old Superintendent Mukesh Kumar and 33-year-old consultant Akash Kaloliya, allegedly targeted a local citizen who was facing proceedings for non-payment of GST and the issuance of false invoices. According to investigators, Kumar initially demanded ₹25 lakh to "settle" the matter and prevent a major legal case. After negotiations, the sum was lowered to ₹20 lakh, with Kaloliya acting as the middleman.

The Gujarat Anti-Corruption Bureau arrested a CGST superintendent and a consultant for accepting a twenty lakh rupee bribe

The ACB noted that this arrest follows several similar incidents earlier this year. In February, another Rajkot CGST officer was caught taking a ₹5,000 bribe, and earlier this month, two officials in Nadiad were arrested in a massive ₹55 lakh bribery case involving seized transport vehicles.

Following the arrests, the ACB urged citizens to remain vigilant and report any demands for illegal gratification. Officials emphasized that all complaints are handled with strict confidentiality as they continue to investigate whether these individuals are part of a wider network of corruption within the regional tax administration.

Key Details of the ACB Trap:

- The Demand: ₹25 lakh (negotiated down to ₹20 lakh).
- The Location: Creative Complex, Rajkot.
- The Outcome: Both suspects were caught during the cash exchange, the full ₹20 lakh was recovered on the spot.

Kerala faces tough times after recent elections

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Just weeks after citizens cast their votes, life in Kerala has taken a difficult turn. The promises of steady power and cheap goods are fading fast as residents face new electricity cuts and a sudden jump in milk prices.

Recently the state began thirty-minute power cuts for the first time in years. This change is a shock to many, as the government spent months campaigning on the promise of a reliable energy supply. However, the lights are now flickering out, leaving families and small businesses struggling to adjust to the new daily schedule.

The bad news continues in the kitchen. Milma, the state's massive dairy cooperative, has decided to raise the price of milk. A single liter will soon jump from 52 to 56 rupees. While dairy officials say this increase is necessary to help ten lakh farmers cover rising costs, the timing has upset many locals. Because election rules are still in place, the group must now ask the Election Commission for permission to finalize the hike.

These twin blows have sparked heated debates across the state. During the election, leaders pointed to stable prices and constant power as proof of their success. Now, with the final results coming soon, the mood has shifted from hope to frustration. For the average family in Kerala, the "post-poll reality" feels much heavier than the campaign promises led them to believe.

AI CEO hails 'hub-and-spoke' model as aviation game-changer

NEW DELHI

Air India CEO Campbell Wilson threw his full weight behind the government's new "hub-and-spoke" aviation strategy, calling it a "transformative step" that will finally position India as a global transit powerhouse.

Coinciding with the announcement, the Tata-owned carrier revealed plans to launch new international routes from Varanasi, signaling a major push to connect Tier-2 cities directly to the world.

The hub-and-spoke model marks a pivot from India being a mere "end destination" to becoming a "global transit ecosystem." Currently, about 35% of international passengers from India transit through foreign hubs like Dubai, Singapore, or London. The government's goal is to recapture that traffic by turning major domestic airports into world-class transit points.

Campbell Wilson praised Prime Minister Narendra Modi's vision, noting that the development of a comprehensive aviation ecosystem is vital for India's economic growth. Air India's Group Head, P. Balaji, added that the strategy would significantly expand India's global footprint beyond the traditional big cities.

The move follows high-level meetings led by Civil Aviation Minister Ram Mohan Naidu to ensure "operational readiness" at Delhi Airport. By streamlining security, baggage handling, and transit times, the government hopes to make Indian hubs the preferred choice for both domestic travelers and international passengers flying between the East and West.

Key highlights of expansion

- Varanasi International Push: Air India will use Varanasi as a key "spoke," funneling passengers from eastern Uttar Pradesh and neighboring regions into larger international networks.
- Infrastructure Synergy: The model will link airports developed under the UDAN scheme (Tier-2 and Tier-3) to major "hubs" like Delhi, Mumbai, Bengaluru, and Hyderabad.
- Global Competitiveness: The initiative aims to make international travel more accessible and affordable for travelers outside of major metro areas.

Central forces clash with protesters in Kolkata

KOLKATA

Tensions reached a breaking point in South Kolkata as central security forces used batons to disperse angry protesters. The clash broke out in the Bhabanipur area, where a high-profile election battle is currently unfolding between local political giants.

The trouble began near the Chief Minister's home when a large group of Trinamool Congress activists gathered to protest against Suvendu Adhikari, the Leader of the Opposition. As Adhikari arrived at a local building, the crowd surrounded him, shouting slogans and moving toward his team.

The situation quickly turned heated as both sides exchanged loud shouts, creating a chaotic scene that threatened to spiral out of control. To restore order and ensure safety, the central forces moved in to push the crowd back.

Adhikari claimed the "hooliganism" would only help him win by a larger margin, while his opponents accused him of arriving at the scene specifically to provoke peaceful voters. A formal complaint has already been filed with election officials. Meanwhile, in nearby Howrah, police arrested a man carrying a sharp weapon after reports surfaced that he was threatening residents.

These incidents highlight the intense pressure surrounding this election. While political leaders trade accusations of instigation and threats, the heavy presence of security forces remains the only thing keeping the peace.

As polling continues, the atmosphere in the city remains incredibly thin, with residents hoping for a quiet end to a very loud and aggressive campaign season. The final results remain the only thing on everyone's mind.

Human rights groups asked to probe arrests

NEW DELHI

A formal complaint was filed with national human rights and child protection groups over the alleged illegal detention of over 1,000 people in Noida.

The plea claims that Uttar Pradesh Police committed serious constitutional violations following recent protests by factory workers and migrant laborers who were demanding better monthly wages.

Advocate Subhash Chandran K.R. moved the petition after reports surfaced that nearly 350 juveniles were among those swept up in a massive police crackdown. The workers had been protesting since early April, seeking an increase in their small salaries to keep up with the rising costs of food and housing.

While some violence occurred during the protests, the complaint argues that the police response was "excessive and indiscriminate," targeting innocent bystanders, shoppers, and children.

The petition alleges that many workers were snatched directly from their factories or workplaces without their families being informed.

Furthermore, it claims that many were held longer than the legal 24-hour limit without seeing a judge, a direct violation of constitutional rights.

HP High Court upholds charges in blackmail case

Shimla

The Himachal Pradesh High Court has upheld charges against a woman accused in a blackmail and extortion case, ruling that the Una court has jurisdiction. The court dismissed her petition challenging earlier charges of conspiracy, extortion, and intimidation. Officials said the case involved incidents across different states, but part of the alleged crime, including money transfers, occurred in Himachal Pradesh. The court noted that such linked offences can be tried where any part of the crime took place. Finding enough evidence, it allowed the trial to continue. The ruling clarifies legal jurisdiction in cases involving crimes across multiple locations.

Vande Bharat express boosts Jammu Tawi connectivity

Srinagar

The Vande Bharat Express has now been extended to Jammu Tawi, offering a major boost to passenger travel. Northern Railway's Chief Area Manager, Kapil Sharma, announced that the train's capacity has been increased from 8 to 20 coaches, a 2.5-fold expansion. The extension, set to be inaugurated on April 30, will help ease travel for passengers, especially students, and reduce waiting times. Designed for all-weather conditions, the train promises safe, fast, and comfortable journeys, with enhanced security and eco-friendly features like CCTV and regenerative braking. This move aims to support tourism and better connect Jammu with Kashmir.

NEW NTA CHIEF PROMISES 'ZERO-ERROR' EXAM SYSTEM

To make things easier for students, exam results will now be linked directly to DigiLocker for fast, verified access'

NEW DELHI

The new leader of India's National Testing Agency (NTA), Abhishek Singh, has launched a major plan to fix national exams. With 10 million students preparing for life-changing tests like NEET and JEE this summer, Singh is promising a "zero-error" system. He wants to ensure that every student has a fair chance to succeed without worrying about cheating or technical glitches.

Singh, an expert in digital technology, is bringing a high-tech approach to the agency. To make things easier for students, exam results will now be linked directly to DigiLocker for fast, verified access. He is also using Artificial Intelligence to listen to student complaints in real-time. "Our commitment is to ensure the process is so secure and fair that even those who are unsuccessful understand why," Singh explained during a recent interview.

One of the biggest changes is focused on reducing student stress. The NTA is working hard to place exam centers closer to students' homes so they don't have to travel long distances. Singh acknowledged the intense pressure of exams like NEET, where millions compete for very few medical seats. He believes that total transparency is the only way to keep the trust of parents and candidates.

By working closely with local police and state governments, the NTA aims to create a "glitch-free" cycle for 2026. From secure digital applications to protected question papers, the goal is simple, a clean, honest exam season that respects the hard work of India's youth.

Massive fire hits Kota's City Mall; No casualties

KOTA

A huge fire broke out on the second floor of Kota's City Mall, leading to a swift response from authorities. Meanwhile, Kota's SP Tejaswini Gautam assured that rescue teams were ensuring no one was trapped inside. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

Ladakh will host the sacred Piprahwa relics this May, a historic milestone aimed at strengthening the region's cultural identity

Sacred relics to strengthen Ladakh's cultural identity

LEH

Ladakh is preparing for a historic civilizational milestone this May as it welcomes the sacred Piprahwa relics for a public exposition.

These holy remains of the Buddha, linked to the Shakya lineage, will be widely accessible in the region for the first time. Experts believe this event will act as a symbolic anchor, helping Ladakh preserve its unique social fabric amidst rapid modernization.

The arrival of the relics is expected to do more than just offer a moment of prayer. It is set to bring together villages, youth groups, and monasteries, fostering a deep sense of community unity. In a region where tourism and global influences are changing traditional life, this shared spiritual experience offers a way for older generations to pass down cultural values to the youth. National Buddhist leaders from across India are expected to converge in Leh, turning the high-altitude desert into a vibrant hub of dialogue and peace.

Beyond spirituality, the exposition promises a significant boost to the local economy. Religious tourism often creates a surge in demand for local guides, artisans, and hospitality workers. It also provides a global stage for traditional Ladakhi crafts, such as thangka painting and handwoven textiles. Improvements in infrastructure made for the event will leave a lasting benefit for residents long after the pilgrims return home.

Ultimately, the event positions Ladakh as a central node in global Buddhism. By hosting these revered relics, India reinforces its cultural ties with nations like Japan, Thailand, and South Korea, proving that ancient traditions remain a powerful force for modern diplomacy and social resilience.

Pune police order 3 Americans to exit India

Three Americans must leave India by May 10 after Pune police caught them distributing religious pamphlets and preaching, violating strict tourist visa laws against proselytization

PUNE

Three American citizens have been ordered to leave India by May 10 after Pune City Police found them allegedly engaging in religious preaching while on tourist visas. The individuals identified as James Ritchie Hudson (65), Frantz Thomas (53), and Garry Rosemond Jean (64), were served a formal "Leave India Notice" for violating strict immigration laws that prohibit proselytization on a tourist visa.

The incident unfolded in the Shukrawar Peth area. According to police reports, a local cab driver became suspicious when the trio approached him and handed him pamphlets printed in English, Hindi, and Marathi titled "Why is the world so divided?" The driver alleged that the men attempted to persuade him regarding their religious beliefs, asserting the superiority of Christianity. He immediately alerted nearby police personnel who were deployed for a local rally.

Upon questioning and a search of their belongings at the local police station, authorities recovered a large quantity of religious literature. The Foreigners Registration Office (FRO) confirmed the violation, noting that "prachar" (preaching) is strictly forbidden for those entering the country on e-Tourist visas.

Deputy Commissioner of Police (FRO) Sandeep Bhajibhakare emphasized that the action was taken strictly in accordance with visa regulations. Police are also investigating whether any local organizations assisted the trio in their activities. Failure to leave the country by the stipulated date could lead to formal prosecution and deportation.

Key details of notice

- Individuals Involved: Three US nationals (ages 53, 64, and 65).
- Deadline to Exit: May 10, 2026.
- Legal Grounds: Violation of the Immigration and Foreigners Act, which mandates that tourists must not engage in missionary or religious activities.
- Current Status: The individuals, who had been staying at a hotel in Pimpri-Chinchwad, are now being monitored to ensure they comply with the departure deadline.

Trade deal with NZ worries apple farmers

SHIMLA

A new trade deal between India and New Zealand has sparked deep fear among apple growers in Himachal Pradesh, Kashmir, and Uttarakhand.

The agreement, signed this week, cuts the tax on imported apples in half, dropping it from 50% to 25%. Local farmers worry this will flood the market with cheaper fruit, ruining their livelihoods.

Under the new rules, India will allow thousands of tons of New Zealand apples to enter the country between April and August. This timing is a major concern because it overlaps with when Indian farmers sell their own harvest. Leaders from the Congress party have flagged the issue, noting that local growers already struggle with high costs and unpredictable weather. They argue that competing with New Zealand, a global leader in apple farming, is an unfair fight for Indian families who have much smaller farms. In Himachal Pradesh alone, over two lakh families depend on apples for their income. While the government has set a minimum price for imports to protect locals, many feel it isn't enough.

Rising heat keeps tourists away from Taj

AGRA

The soaring temperatures across North India have turned the marble steps of the Taj Mahal into a scorching furnace, causing a sharp drop in tourist numbers. Usually packed with thousands of visitors, the world-famous monument saw unusually thin crowds as a brutal heatwave took hold of the region.

Local officials confirmed that the extreme weather has scared away both domestic and international travelers. Those who did brave the sun, like tourist Anjali Singh, described the experience as a struggle. "We finished our entire tour in just an hour because it was too hot for the children," she said, highlighting the difficulties families are facing. With temperatures hitting between 40 and 46 degrees Celsius in many parts of the country, simply standing outdoors has become a health risk.

In response to the dangerous conditions, the India Meteorological Department has issued several alerts. In nearby Prayagraj, authorities have already shortened school hours and installed water ATMs to keep the public hydrated. Experts are urging anyone visiting outdoor sites to wear light cotton clothing and keep their heads covered to avoid heatstroke.

The heatwave is expected to continue for several days, affecting states from Punjab to Bihar.

BJP reveals candidates for upcoming council polls

NEW DELHI

The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) officially named its candidates for the upcoming Legislative Council by-elections in Bihar and Maharashtra. The party leadership approved the list just a day before the deadline, signaling a strategic move to secure its presence in the upper houses of both states.

In Bihar, the party has placed its trust in Surya Kumar Sharma, popularly known as Arvind Sharma, to contest the bypoll. Meanwhile, in Maharashtra, the BJP has nominated Dr. Pradnya Rajeev Satav for their respective vacant seat. These by-elections are seen as crucial tests of local strength before larger regional contests later this year. In addition to the by-elections, the ruling party released five more names for the regular biennial elections in Maharashtra.

Court sends Dawood aide Dola to Mumbai custody

NEW DELHI

A Delhi court has granted the Narcotics Control Bureau (NCB) a two-day transit remand for Mohammad Salim Dola, a suspected high-level drug handler.

Dola, reportedly a close associate of underworld don Dawood Ibrahim, was recently brought back from Turkey. He will now be transported to Mumbai to face charges related to a major drug syndicate.

The NCB produced Dola before a duty magistrate, requesting time to move him across state lines. Federal prosecutors argued that his arrest is tied to a 2023 investigation into international narcotics smuggling. Although his lawyers fought the request, claiming Dola had been living abroad since 2020 and could not be linked to the recent case, the court ruled in favor of the agency. Officials stated that an active warrant from a Mumbai court justified the arrest and transfer.

In a separate but significant ruling at the same court, judges found enough evidence to proceed with money laundering charges against Bilquies Shah, the wife of separatist leader Shabir Ahmad Shah. The Enforcement Directorate (ED) alleges she was involved in illegal "hawala" transactions used to fund terror activities.

FRUIT ICE FOR FELINES

Nahargarh Zoo offers 'fruit ice cream' to cool animals

JAIPUR

As a blistering heatwave grips Rajasthan, the staff at Nahargarh Biological Park have turned into "summer caretakers" to keep their wild residents safe.

From jumbo coolers to specialized diets, the park has implemented a rigorous cooling protocol to protect tigers, lions, and bears from the scorching sun.

The park's veterinary team, led by Dr. Arvind Mathur, has introduced a summer-friendly menu to keep animals hydrated. Sloth bears and Himalayan bears are being treated to cold milk and "fruit ice cream," while herbivores like hippos and deer are munching on watermelons, cucumbers, and bitter gourds. To help them fight the physical stress of the heat, the animals are also receiving glucose-water, vitamins, and anti-stress medications.

Beyond managing the heat, the park is celebrating a successful season of wildlife breeding. Following the birth of three cubs to the tigress Rani, the administration is currently caring for two more cubs. Nahargarh is also gaining national recognition for its wolf breeding program, marking it as a leader in wildlife conservation even under challenging climate conditions.

Modifications made

- Morning Baths: Tigers and leopards are bathed every morning before being released into their enclosures.
- Cooling Tech: Night shelters are now equipped with jumbo coolers, while display areas use water sprinklers and "rain guns" to lower the temperature.
- Sun Protection: Green nets have been draped over shelters to block direct sunlight and create a shaded sanctuary.

President Volodymyr Zelenskiy has leveraged Ukraine's expertise in drone warfare into a series of successful diplomatic deals during visits to the Middle East and Europe, showcasing how Kyiv is using military prowess to boost its diplomatic clout. Since Russia's invasion in 2022, Zelenskiy has sought to strengthen Kyiv's alliances, both with Western allies and with countries of the "global south", to restrict Russia's diplomatic sway. The Iran war has confirmed how central drones are to modern warfare and handed Zelenskiy a diplomatic trump card at a time when U.S. support for Kyiv appears unreliable, analysts say.

Trump tells aides to prepare for extended blockade of Iran

Trump has intensified pressure on Iran to agree to a deal amid ongoing conflict, warning Tehran to act quickly or face further economic consequences

WASNINGTON

His remarks come as reports suggest Washington is preparing to extend its blockade of Iranian ports, signaling a tougher stance following stalled negotiations.

In a post on Truth Social, President Donald Trump urged Iran to "get smart soon" and finalize an agreement, expressing frustration over the lack of progress in diplomatic efforts. Trump reiterated his long-standing position that Iran must not acquire nuclear weapons and indicated that Tehran has failed to respond effectively to negotiation opportunities.The statement follows reports from The Wall Street Journal that the U.S. administration is considering extending its blockade of Iran's ports. According to officials cited in the report, Trump has instructed his aides to prepare for a prolonged economic squeeze aimed at forcing Iran to concede. The strategy is seen as an alternative to more aggressive actions such as renewed military strikes or disengagement from the conflict, both of which carry significant risks.Officials believe that maintaining pressure on Iran's economy, particularly its oil exports, could push the country toward a compromise. However, Trump did not provide specific details about what a potential "nonnuclear deal" would include, leaving uncertainty about the terms Washington expects Tehran to accept.Iran, on the other hand, continues to demand recognition of its right to enrich uranium for civilian purposes. The country maintains that its nuclear program is peaceful, despite international concerns. Reports indicate that Iran currently possesses approximately 440 kilograms of uranium enriched to 60 percent, a level that, if further refined, could potentially be used to develop multiple nuclear weapons.The gap between U.S. demands and Iran's position remains a major obstacle to reaching an agreement. As tensions persist, the proposed extension of the blockade underscores Washington's reliance on economic pressure to achieve its objectives, while the prospects for a diplomatic breakthrough remain uncertain.

Power shift in Iran hardens stance amid war, diplomacy

DUBAI

The sudden vacuum at the top has disrupted decades of centralized authority, potentially influencing Tehran's diplomatic posture as it considers renewed negotiations with Washington

Two months into an intense conflict involving the United States and Israel, Iran is witnessing a historic transformation in its leadership structure following the death of its Supreme Leader, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei.

The sudden vacuum at the top has disrupted decades of centralized authority, potentially influencing Tehran's diplomatic posture as it considers renewed negotiations with Washington.

Since the establishment of the Islamic Republic in 1979, Iran's political system has revolved around a single, all-powerful Supreme Leader who held ultimate authority over both political and military decisions.

However, the killing of Khamenei on the first day of the ongoing war has marked a significant departure from this model. His son, Mojtaba Khamenei, has since been elevated, but reports suggest that his authority is limited compared to his predecessor.

According to sources familiar with internal developments, Mojtaba Khamenei's role appears largely symbolic, serving to endorse decisions made by powerful military figures rather than independently directing policy. This shift has effectively transferred significant influence to the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC), which now plays a dominant role in both military strategy and political decision-making.

The wartime environment has further consolidated power within a smaller, more hardline circle consisting of the IRGC, the Supreme National Security Council and the Supreme Leader's office. Analysts believe this concentration of authority has led to a tougher stance from Tehran, particularly in its approach to negotiations with the US.

A senior Pakistani official involved in mediating talks between the two nations highlighted the challenges posed by the current leadership structure. The absence of a clear, centralized command has reportedly slowed Iran's decision-making process, with responses to diplomatic proposals sometimes taking several days. Experts suggest that while internal coordination remains complex, the primary obstacle to any agreement lies in the significant differences between US expectations and the terms Iran's hardline factions are willing to accept.

KING CHARLES VISITS 9/11 MEMORIAL IN NYC

LONDON

Britain's King Charles and Queen Camilla arrived in New York on Wednesday as part of a four-day state visit to the United States, with a key focus on honoring the victims of the September 11, 2001 terror attacks. The visit comes amid ongoing diplomatic engagements and geopolitical tensions involving the U.S. and the United Kingdom.

The royal couple's arrival in New York follows a busy schedule in Washington, D.C., where King Charles addressed the U.S. Congress and held private discussions with U.S. President Donald Trump. Their meeting reportedly took place against the backdrop of rising tensions between the two allies over the ongoing conflict involving Iran. During a White House state dinner, President Trump suggested that King Charles had expressed support for ending Iran's nuclear program. However, this claim has not been officially confirmed, and both Downing Street and Buckingham Palace have yet to respond to inquiries.

In New York, King Charles and Queen Camilla are set to participate in a solemn ceremony at the 9/11 Memorial in Lower Manhattan. The memorial stands at the site where the twin towers of the World Trade Center were destroyed in the September 11 attacks carried out by al-Qaeda terrorists, resulting in the deaths of nearly 2,800 people. The ceremony is expected to pay tribute to the victims and reflect on the enduring global impact of the tragedy.

During the event, King Charles is also scheduled to meet New York City Mayor Zohran Mamdani, highlighting the diplomatic and symbolic importance of the visit. Following the memorial ceremony, the king will travel to Harlem to visit a grassroots community organization focused on sustainable urban farming. The initiative aims to address food insecurity by promoting local food production and community engagement.

The visit underscores the continued importance of U.S.-UK relations, blending remembrance with discussions on global challenges, even as political sensitivities remain in focus.

Armed with a shotgun, he opened fire inside the premises, injuring an employee in the leg. China promotes 'peaceful reunification' as economic break for Taiwan

TAIWAN

China has renewed its push for "peaceful reunification" with Taiwan, claiming the move would unlock unprecedented economic opportunities for the island. The proposal, however, has been firmly rejected by Taiwan's government, which continues to resist Beijing's claims over its sovereignty.

At a weekly press briefing in Beijing, Chen Binhua, spokesperson for China's Taiwan Affairs Office, emphasized that unification with China would significantly boost Taiwan's economic prospects. He argued that closer integration would allow Taiwan to benefit from China's vast market while leveraging its own strengths in technology, innovation, and skilled talent.

According to Chen, peaceful reunification would "reinvigorate" Taiwan's economy by creating new growth opportunities and providing greater stability for investors and businesses. He described the proposal as offering unmatched potential and long-term confidence for Taiwan's economic development, particularly at a time when global markets remain uncertain.

China, which considers Taiwan part of its territory, has intensified efforts since late last year to promote the idea of reunification through economic incentives and diplomatic messaging. While Beijing continues to advocate for a peaceful approach, it has not ruled out the use of force, maintaining pressure on Taipei through both political and military means.

Taiwan, however, has consistently rejected China's proposals. The government led by President Lai Ching-te maintains that the island is already a self-governing democracy and does not require Beijing's authority. Taiwanese officials have also expressed skepticism over China's economic promises, pointing instead to domestic challenges within mainland China.

Taiwan's economy remains strong, driven largely by its global leadership in semiconductor manufacturing, a sector critical to emerging technologies such as artificial intelligence. The island recorded robust economic growth of 8.68% in 2025, its fastest expansion in 15 years, with further growth expected in the near term.

Critics of Beijing's proposal argue that rather than offering assurances to Taiwan, China should focus on addressing its own economic and social issues. As tensions continue, the divide between the two sides highlights not only political differences but also competing visions for economic stability and future growth.

Ukraine extends range of strikes on Russia, hits oil targets

UKRAINE

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskiy has announced a significant escalation in Ukraine's military strategy, revealing that the country is extending the range of its strikes deep into Russian territory. The move marks a new phase in the conflict as Kyiv intensifies efforts to weaken Russia's war capabilities and disrupt its economic backbone.President Volodymyr Zelenskiy stated on Wednesday that Ukraine would continue to expand the reach of its long-range attacks, sharing footage that he claimed showed a successful strike at a distance exceeding 1,500 kilometers inside Russia. The announcement highlights Ukraine's growing military capability and its increasing reliance on advanced drone and missile systems to carry out deep strikes.

In recent weeks, Ukraine has stepped up its offensive strategy by targeting critical Russian infrastructure, particularly oil refineries, pumping stations, storage depots, and port facilities. These sites are considered vital to Moscow's war economy, as energy exports remain one of Russia's primary sources of revenue. By striking these assets, Ukraine aims to weaken Russia's financial capacity to sustain prolonged military operations.Zelenskiy described the latest attack as "a new stage" in the use of Ukrainian weapons, emphasizing that such operations are designed to limit Russia's war potential. He noted that the straight-line distance of the strike exceeded 1,500 kilometers and confirmed that Ukraine would continue to extend its operational reach in the coming weeks.Ukraine's Security Service (SBU) later reported that its drones successfully hit an oil pumping station near the Russian city of Perm during the overnight operation. The attack demonstrates Ukraine's ability to penetrate deep into Russian territory with increasing precision.

US intel assesses Iran's response to possible Trump victory claim

WASHINGTON

US intelligence agencies are closely analyzing how Iran might react if President Donald Trump declares a unilateral victory in the ongoing two-month-long war. The conflict, which has resulted in thousands of deaths, is increasingly seen as a political burden for the White House ahead of upcoming midterm elections.

According to U.S. officials and sources familiar with the matter, the intelligence community has been tasked with evaluating multiple scenarios, including the potential consequences of a sudden de-escalation by Washington. The assessment aims to provide clarity on how Iran's leadership would interpret and respond to a possible U.S. withdrawal following a declaration of victory by President Donald Trump. The ongoing conflict has placed mounting pressure on the administration, with concerns among officials and advisers that prolonged military engagement could negatively impact Republican prospects in the midterm elections. A swift de-escalation could help ease domestic political tensions, but it also carries strategic risks.

Russia reaffirms OPEC+ commitment amid UAE exit

MOSCOW

Russia has confirmed it will remain part of the OPEC+ alliance despite the United Arab Emirates' decision to withdraw from the group.

The development comes at a time of heightened instability in global energy markets, driven in part by the ongoing Iran conflict and growing divisions among major oil-producing nations.

The Kremlin on Wednesday emphasized the importance of the OPEC+ alliance, even as the United Arab Emirates announced its decision to leave the Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). The move by the UAE is seen as a significant setback for the coalition of oil producers, raising concerns about unity within the group during a period of global energy uncertainty.

Russia, which joined OPEC+ in 2016, remains one of its key members and is currently the second-largest producer in the alliance after Saudi Arabia. The UAE, prior to its exit, was the fourth-largest producer, making its departure a notable shift in the group's dynamics. The decision has highlighted underlying tensions among Gulf nations, particularly as the energy crisis linked to the Iran war continues to strain relationships.Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov stated that OPEC+ plays a crucial role in maintaining stability in global oil markets. He noted that the alliance helps to minimize fluctuations and provides a mechanism for balancing supply and demand during volatile periods. According to Peskov, such coordination is especially vital given the current disruptions affecting energy markets worldwide.

While expressing respect for the UAE's decision to withdraw, Russia signaled its intention to maintain strong energy cooperation with the Gulf nation. Officials in Moscow have indicated that bilateral dialogue on energy matters will continue, even outside the OPEC+ framework.

SOORYAVANSHI becomes fastest batter to 400 IPL season runs in deliveries

MULLANPUR

Rajasthan Royals teenage sensation Vaibhav Sooryavanshi scripted history in IPL 2026 by becoming the fastest batter to reach 400 runs in a season in terms of balls faced, achieving the feat in just 167 deliveries during Rajasthan Royals' clash against Punjab Kings. The 15-year-old opener surpassed the previous record held by Andre Russell, who had taken 188 balls to cross the milestone while representing Kolkata Knight Riders in the 2019 season. India batter Abhishek Sharma occupies the third spot after reaching the mark in 195 balls during IPL 2024.

Sooryavanshi reached the landmark at the Maharaja Yadavindra Singh International Cricket Stadium in Mullanpur, continuing his extraordinary rise as one of the brightest young talents in the tournament. The left-handed batter has been in sensational form throughout the ongoing season and is currently the first player to breach the 400-run mark in IPL 2026.

In nine matches so far, Sooryavanshi has amassed 400 runs at an impressive average of 44.44 and a staggering strike rate of 238.09.

His tally includes two half-centuries and a stunning century against Sunrisers Hyderabad earlier this season in Jaipur. His fearless strokeplay and consistency have made him one of the standout performers of the tournament, with bowlers struggling to contain his aggressive approach at the top of the order.

In the match against Punjab Kings, Sooryavanshi smashed 43 runs off just 16 balls, hitting three boundaries and five sixes, while Yashasvi Jaiswal contributed a brisk 51 off 27 deliveries to provide Rajasthan Royals a flying start in pursuit of 223.

Earlier, Punjab Kings posted 222/4 riding on unbeaten 62 off 22 balls from Marcus Stoinis and 59 from Prabhsimran Singh. However, a match-winning unbeaten partnership between Donovan Ferreira and Shubham Dubey guided Rajasthan Royals to victory with four balls remaining.

Arjun Tendulkar, Siddhant Addhatrao cleared to participate in T20 Mumbai League auction

MUMBAI

Arjun Tendulkar and Siddhant Addhatrao have been cleared by the BCCI to participate in the upcoming T20 Mumbai League despite representing Goa and Pondicherry respectively in domestic cricket during the recently concluded season.

The Mumbai Cricket Association (MCA) confirmed that both players would be included in the auction pool for Season 4 of the T20 Mumbai League after receiving approval from the Board of Control for Cricket in India.

"This is to inform you that the Board of Control for Cricket in India has approved the participation of Mr. Arjun Tendulkar and Mr. Siddhant Addhatrao in the T20 Mumbai League – Season 4," stated an MCA communication sent to franchise operators.

Addhatrao, a wicketkeeper-batter who made his Ranji Trophy debut during the 2024-25 season, represented Pondicherry last year, while Tendulkar has been playing domestic cricket for Goa over the past few seasons.

As per existing MCA regulations, local players returning after appearing as guest players for another state association are generally required to undergo a one-year cooling-off period before becoming eligible for Mumbai competitions. However, MCA secretary Unmesh Khanvilkar clarified that the rule would not apply in the present case.

"Since they have not participated in the T20 league organised by the association of their respective teams, the BCCI has allowed them to participate in the T20 Mumbai League," Khanvilkar said.

Addhatrao confirmed that he had already submitted the required No-Objection Certificate and expressed his excitement about returning to Mumbai cricket.

"I just want to enjoy Mumbai cricket, be it first-class, T20 Mumbai or maidan cricket," he said.

Riyan Parag sparks controversy after alleged vaping caught on live IPL broadcast cameras

MULLANPUR

Rajasthan Royals captain Riyan Parag has landed in controversy after television cameras allegedly caught him vaping inside the dressing room during his team's IPL 2026 clash against Punjab Kings in Mullanpur.

The visuals, aired during the live broadcast, appeared to show the RR skipper inhaling from what looked like an e-cigarette while seated in the dressing room. The footage quickly spread across social media platforms, triggering sharp reactions from fans and cricket followers.

India banned e-cigarettes under the Prohibition of Electronic Cigarettes Act (PECA), 2019, which prohibits their production, sale, distribution and advertisement. Violations can attract imprisonment of up to one year and a fine of Rs 1 lakh for first-time offenders.

Parag, who scored a brisk 29 off 16 balls in Rajasthan Royals' successful chase of 223, has endured a mixed season with the bat but now finds himself under scrutiny for off-field reasons.

IPL and BCCI officials involved with the tournament reportedly described the act as "careless" in an era dominated by constant television coverage and social media attention.

"A lot of players consume e-cigarettes but they do not do it openly in dressing rooms. It is risky and careless with cameras everywhere. The BCCI could now be compelled to take note," an IPL source was quoted as saying.

No official statement had been issued by Rajasthan Royals at the time of reporting. The controversy has also reignited discussions over dressing room privacy during IPL broadcasts. According to sources, several captains had raised concerns during a pre-season IPL meeting in Mumbai regarding cameras frequently focusing on dressing room areas during matches. Officials reportedly clarified that decisions regarding live broadcast camera feeds rest with broadcasters and not directly with the BCCI.

This is the second controversy involving Rajasthan Royals this season. Earlier, team manager Romi Bhinder was fined Rs 1 lakh for breaching PMOA protocol after allegedly using a mobile phone in the dugout during a match.

Health experts have consistently warned that vaping poses significant health risks despite being considered less harmful than conventional smoking. According to medical experts, nicotine in e-cigarettes is highly addictive and can increase blood pressure and heart-related risks.

Abhishek Sharma's detailed preparation driving explosive IPL 2026 form, says Franklin

MUMBAI

Abhishek Sharma's fearless batting in IPL 2026 is backed by meticulous preparation and tactical awareness, according to James Franklin, assistant coach of Sunrisers Hyderabad.

Franklin highlighted the opener's detailed approach to studying opposition bowlers and planning his innings well in advance.

"As far as Abhishek is concerned, he is very detailed with how he plans and prepares for oppositions. He will know and understand what bowlers will try and present to him, particularly in the PowerPlay," Franklin said.

Abhishek has emerged as one of the standout performers of the ongoing IPL season, leading the run charts with 380 runs from eight matches.

His aggressive stroke-play at the top of the order has played a key role in Sunrisers Hyderabad's strong campaign so far.

The left-handed batter has consistently dominated bowlers during the PowerPlay overs while also showing awareness of match situations, making him one of the most dangerous openers this season.

Franklin noted that Abhishek actively engages in discussions regarding opposition bowlers and possible strategies they may employ against him.

"He likes to have conversations around the different bowlers that he is going to be coming up against in the next game. So, he will be well aware of potentially how they might come at him," Franklin explained.

Earlier in the tournament, Abhishek had fallen to a slower-ball variation from Mohammed Shami during a match against Lucknow Super Giants, raising speculation that Mumbai Indians might attempt a similar tactic.

However, Franklin believes the batter's anticipation and preparation make him capable of adapting quickly to different challenges.

The upcoming contest could also see an exciting battle between Abhishek and premier Mumbai Indians pacer Jasprit Bumrah, whose ability to strike early remains vital for Mumbai's chances.

With both teams eyeing important points in the league stage, Abhishek's form at the top may once again prove decisive for Sunrisers Hyderabad.

FIFA introduces double yellow-card reset rule for 2026 WC knockout stage

ZURICH

The world governing body of football FIFA has introduced a significant rule change for the FIFA World Cup 2026, altering how yellow-card suspensions are handled in the expanded 48-team tournament format.

Under the revised regulation, players' yellow-card records will now be cleared twice during the competition to reduce the risk of key footballers missing important knockout-stage matches due to accumulated cautions.

According to FIFA, the decision was approved by the FIFA Council following a review of the new tournament structure, which will include an additional round-of-32 stage for the first time in World Cup history.

"Reflective of the expanded format with an extra knockout round, the FIFA Council confirmed an amendment to the regulations for the FIFA World Cup 2026 whereby single yellow cards in the final competition will be cancelled after the group stage and then again after the quarterfinals," FIFA said in a statement.

BHUVNESHWAR SAYS DEFENSIVE BOWLING AGAINST AGGRESSIVE T20 BATTERS IS SMART CRICKET

NEW DELHI

Bhuvneshwar Kumar believes bowlers in modern T20 cricket must embrace defensive tactics and disciplined planning against hard-hitting batters, insisting that being defensive does not necessarily mean negative cricket.

The experienced Royal Challengers Bengaluru pacer delivered a sensational spell of 3/5 against Delhi Capitals during their IPL 2026 clash at the Arun Jaitley Stadium. Alongside Australian quick Josh Hazlewood, who claimed 4/12, Bhuvneshwar dismantled Delhi's batting line-up as the hosts were bundled out for just 75 runs.

RCB chased down the modest target in only 6.3 overs with nine wickets remaining to register a commanding victory.

Reflecting on the evolving nature of T20 batting, Bhuvneshwar said modern players attack relentlessly even when conditions favour bowlers, forcing seamers to adapt strategically.

"The biggest change is that batters no longer hold back, even when the ball is swinging in the powerplay. Earlier, there was more respect for conditions, but now the approach is consistently aggressive," Bhuvneshwar said.

"That is where the mindset shift for bowlers becomes important. Being defensive is not negative, it is about bowling to a plan and targeting weaknesses," he added.

The veteran swing bowler explained that bowlers naturally become more attacking when conditions offer movement through the air or off the pitch. However, on flat batting-friendly surfaces, controlling boundaries becomes the primary objective.

"On flat wickets with no assistance, the approach becomes more defensive, not in a negative way, but with the focus on controlling runs and avoiding boundaries, especially against aggressive batters," he said.

Bhuvneshwar also credited preparation and communication for RCB's dominant bowling display alongside Hazlewood.

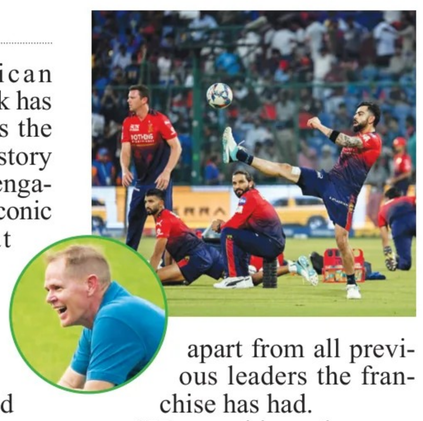
"A lot of it comes down to preparation and understanding situations. Even small details matter, and having experienced players like Josh helps because communication on the field becomes crucial," he noted.

Widely regarded as one of India's finest swing bowlers, Bhuvneshwar attributed his control and consistency to extensive red-ball cricket experience.

Shaun Pollock hails Rajat Patidar as RCB's greatest-ever captain in IPL history

NEW DELHI

Former South African all-rounder Shaun Pollock has labelled Rajat Patidar as the greatest leader in the history of Royal Challengers Bengaluru, putting him above iconic names such as Virat Kohli, Rahul Dravid and Anil Kumble.



RCB are enjoying a dominant run in IPL 2026, with six wins from eight matches and sitting firmly among the top contenders for a playoff berth. The defending champions continue to look strong across departments under Patidar's leadership.

Pollock said Patidar's immediate impact as captain—culminating in RCB's maiden IPL title in 2025—sets him apart from all previous leaders the franchise has had.

"He would go down as the greatest RCB captain. Just straight out—the fact that in his first year as captain he took them to the title. This year, they are basically there already, and you can't see them losing that many games and not qualifying for the playoffs again," Pollock said.

RCB's long wait for an IPL trophy ended under Patidar, who took over the leadership reins in 2025 and guided the team to a historic championship win. The achievement came after years of near-misses under several high-profile captains.

Pollock further praised the consistency and stability Patidar has brought to the team, noting that RCB now play with a clearer structure and calmness in pressure situations.

"But to have taken over a franchise that had gone so long without winning and then deliver at that level—to get a trophy under your belt—it looks like you are heading for one and two again. At the moment, he is the GOAT," he added.

Mitchell McClenaghan calls Virat Kohli greatest batter in IPL history after landmark feat

NEW DELHI

Former New Zealand pacer Mitchell McClenaghan has hailed Virat Kohli as the greatest batter in Indian Premier League history following the Royal Challengers Bengaluru star's latest milestone in IPL 2026.

Kohli recently became the first batter to cross the 9,000-run mark in IPL history during Royal Challengers Bengaluru's emphatic victory over Delhi Capitals at the Arun Jaitley Stadium in New Delhi.

The veteran batter finished unbeaten on 23 off just 15 deliveries, sealing the modest 76-run chase with consecutive sixes as RCB cruised to a dominant nine-wicket win in only 6.3 overs.

McClenaghan praised Kohli's remarkable consistency and ability to evolve throughout his IPL journey since the tournament's inception in 2008.

"Virat Kohli has been incredibly consistent. Scoring 9,000 IPL runs against the world's best bowlers is no easy task. It is about hunger, discipline and adapting every year, and that is what brings the best out of him," McClenaghan said.

The former left-arm pacer highlighted how Kohli successfully transformed his batting role over the years, beginning as a lower middle-order player before becoming one of the most dominant top-order batters in T20 cricket.

"He did not start his career as an opener. He batted in the lower middle order, fought for his place, then moved to number three. Later, he opened with Chris Gayle. That changed his game completely," he added.

McClenaghan also predicted another major landmark for the former India captain, saying Kohli would soon become the first batter to score 10,000 IPL runs.

"He will soon reach 10,000 runs, without a doubt. Kohli is the greatest batter the IPL has ever seen, not just for the runs, but for how he has evolved and dominated across different eras," he stated.

Kohli now has 9,012 runs in 275 IPL matches at an average of 40.05, including eight centuries and 66 half-centuries. In IPL 2026, he has already amassed 351 runs in eight innings at a strike rate exceeding 162.
